
Environmental Protection in the Amazon and the Rights of Indigenous Peoples in Brazil

Convention on Human Rights (ACHR), because it is misinforming the public about the gravity of the res. [5] The organizations further expressed that the government must take immediate measures to protect the right to a healthy environment and to avoid aggression against human rights defenders; it must avoid the forced displacement of Indigenous communities, an obligation under Article 22 of the ACHR.

The State claimed that Brazilian environmental law is among the most advanced in the world and rebutted
